GOFFSTOWN, March 1, 1870.

Report of Town-House Committee.

We, the undersigned, a committee appointed by the town of Goffstown to settle with the committee appointed to build the Town-house in Goffstown, have attended to the duty assigned us, and report that the whole expense of building said Town-house is as follows :

Cost of land,.....	$350 00
Paid by citizens, on subscription,.....	75 00
<hr/>
Paid by town,.....	$275 00
The whole expense, aside from the land amounts to	5114 62
Whole cost of building.....	$5389 62

The chairman of the building committee said at a town-meeting that the whole expense would not exceed $5000 ; but in this estimate the painting was not included, and the building has one coat of paint which has cost, inside and out, $290.29. We considered this necessary. We have examined all the bills, find them correctly cast, and also receipted, excepting what is due to George Warren and Eliphalet Richards, and their bills have only charged for work actually performed.

All which is submitted by the committee.

SCHOOL REPORT.

The School Committee respectfully submits the following report:

The prosperity of the schools compares favorably with that of former years, and in those cases, with one or two exceptions, where to some extent they have been unsuccessful, the school money was not expended wholly in vain. Districts No. 2, 10 and 12 have manifested a greater degree of interest by providing better accommodations for their children, and in all these places prosperous schools have been held. Other circumstances were combined in the accomplishment of this result, but it is universally acknowledged by those, whose experience in school life qualifies them to judge, that a convenient and attractive school room contributes much to the prosperity of a school.

Other districts should consider the disadvantages connected with the outlay of their school money, and at once adopt measures to secure better houses. A few are a disgrace to any enlightened people, and are so repulsive in appearance, we do not wonder that the parents and friends of the scholars are so seldom found inside their doors. Some say, it is of no use to provide neat and well furnished school rooms to be immediately disfigured and ruined by careless and inconsiderate scholars. We admit that most of our school houses are needlessly abused, but when older persons, in the presence of the children, are free to wish the old houses burned, does all the blame rest upon the scholars for the destruction practiced in some instances? Again, in some of the districts many of the barns, when compared with the school houses, far exceed them in neatness of structure and convenience of arrangement, and how unreasonable to expect the children to care for and respect such houses. We believe in providing school rooms which are worth preserving, and a reform cannot be secured till this is done.

More would be done to promote the welfare of our schools, if their importance was duly considered and their real value fully appreciated. The State Supt. of Public Instruction in a circular calling for a convention of the school committee of this County, appropriately says: "There is need of greater zeal in the cause of education,—of more union in effort, and system in the management of our schools,—of a higher standard of qualifications on the part of teachers, and increase of animation and thought with the pupils."

Hillard's series of Readers has been introduced into most of the schools. The books have given excellent satisfaction, and have been the means of awakening a greater interest in this important exercise of the school room. A teacher has the opportunity of seeing the advantage of frequently giving a child a new reader, notwithstanding the testimony of some people to the contrary. In this connection we would express our conviction, that teachers should provide themselves with reading books, for to us it seems like robbery to depend upon the classes. With the exception of a few studies, two scholars should not be required to study from one book. Give each a separate book, and enough more will be learned to pay the cost.

We would call attention to Shaw's Writing and Composition Spelling Book, as affording an exercise which must be of great value if introduced into our schools. By its use much may be learned about the formation of sentences, the proper use of capital letters and punctuation marks, also in spelling and penmanship.

DISTRICT No. 1. Village, South Side.

CARRIE R. CARR, Teacher.

This district had three terms. Miss Carr, with but little previous experience, managed the school, which is large in numbers and very poorly accommodated, with good success. We attribute this prosperity to the teacher's kindness to her pupils, careful attention to the exercises of the school room, and real adaptedness to the work. The winter term was commenced by George P. Hadley, 2d, but on account of sickness, he was obliged to leave after teaching two weeks. He evidently made a good beginning and gave satisfaction. Miss Carr taught the remainder of the term. A new school house would lead to greater prosperity in the school, and efforts should be made to secure it.

DISTRICT No. 2. Mountain.

Winter Term.—SARA A. PAIGE, Teacher.

The term of twelve weeks passed pleasantly and profitably. We commend the scholars for their correct deportment and attention to study. It seemed evident that more was accomplished by expending the money for one term, instead of dividing it for two short ones, as has usually been practiced here. Some repairs added much to the comfort of the school house, yet a new arrangement of seats is needed.

DISTRICT No. 3. Shirley Hill.

Summer Term, MARY A. CAMPBELL, Teacher.

Winter Term, MARY E. SARGENT, Teacher.

A small but pleasant school. Miss C. is a persevering, and energetic teacher, and the scholars were thoroughly drilled. The good conduct of the pupils, their promptness and correctness in recitation, afforded us satisfaction.

Miss Sargent's school appeared well at the commencement, but we did not receive timely notice of its close. The teacher reports, "decided improvement in reading." Six scholars did not whisper during the term. These circumstances are favorable to the teacher and pupils.

DISTRICT No. 4. Kennedy Hill.

Summer and Winter Terms.

N. AMANDA WYMAN, Teacher.

The last was Miss Wyman's seventh term in this district, and the thorough acquaintance existing between teacher and scholars was quite a benefit to the school. Miss Wyman's long connection with the school, forcibly shows that the people appreciate the services of a good teacher, and are well united in the work. In most instances more is accomplished when the same teacher has charge of a school for several terms. We were informed that an attempt would be made to repair the school house. A convenient and comfortable school room might be made from the old one without great expense.

DISTRICT No. 5. Mast Road.

Summer and Winter Terms.

A. JOSIE CROCKETT, Teacher.

This school was quite small compared with former years. Only one-half as many scholars reported, as there was for the winter term of last year, a change seldom occurring in our schools. Improvement was manifest in deportment, and in the general exercises of the school-room. If more energy could be awakened in recitation among these naturally smart scholars, it would add materially to the character of the school.

DISTRICT No. 6. Center, South Side.

Summer Term, LIZZIE A. WHITE, Teacher.

Winter Term, SYLVANUS B. GILCHRIST, Teacher.

The services of both teachers seemed to be very acceptable to the district. Miss White has had a large experience and is an excellent teacher. But one visit was made to her school; then everything was working well. Mr. Gilchrist was faithful in his work and good progress was made for the time the school continued. The school year was a prosperous one.

DISTRICT No. 7. East.

Summer Term, ELLA J. MERRILL, Teacher.

Winter Term, D. NEWTON PUTNEY, Teacher.

Our impressions were favorable at the commencement of the term. The scholars were poorly accommodated, and we cannot reasonably expect children to be quiet, when crowded upon backless seats. Our second visit was made two days before the appointed time for the final examinations, and but few scholars were present. Some seemed to lack interest, while others showed commendable progress.

Mr. Putney had previously taught here, and his return was the source of gratification to those interested in the welfare of the school. We were well pleased with the advancement made, and the exercises indicated thoroughness in teaching, and diligence in study. In many respects it was an excellent school. Mr. Putney uses Guyot's Geography to good advantage. The maps presented for examination were neatly and correctly drawn.

DISTRICT No. 8. Tebbetts Hill.

Summer Term, MARY E. SARGENT, Teacher.

Winter Term, CALVIN MARTIN, Teacher.

These terms were so short that but little could be done at best. The scholars were benefited, but not to that extent which a greater interest in the school would have produced. Twelve weeks of schooling is a small matter when compared with what the scholars need. These teachers labored as successfully as could be expected under the circumstances.

DISTRICT No. 9. Center, North Side.

Summer Term, SARA A. PAIGE, Teacher.

Winter Term, ALVIN HADLEY, Teacher.

Harmony of feeling did not exist between teacher and scholars to that extent which is essential to secure the best results. Miss Paige is entitled to the credit of an honest endeavor to benefit her pupils, but the cares and trials constantly arising in such a large school, combined with fears of not being able to please in all things, were evidently a great burden to her. We do not consider the term by any means a failure; considerable progress was made.

The scholars were well interested in the school during the winter term. Better habits of study were observed than during our first charge of the school, and the efforts aside from the regular school hours, contributed much towards the advancement made. No word of complaint from scholars or parents, ever came to our knowledge; a fact truly wonderful considering the disadvantages attending a teacher's labors in a large school. We went forth to our task from day to day with the assurance of the hearty sympathy and coöperation of all the parents. We were made the recipient of an appropriate token, valuable in itself, but to us it has another and greater value, coming from kind, respectful, and obedient scholars.

DISTRICT No. 10. Pattee Hill.

Summer Term, JOSIE PATTEE, Teacher.

Winter Term, GEORGIA F. AUSTIN, Teacher.

Miss Pattee commenced teaching in her own district, having for scholars those, who but a few months before, were mates of hers at school. The teacher says: "The scholars were uniformly courteous and obedient, diligent in their studies, and generally very perfect in recitation." As a natural consequence good improvement was made in the studies pursued.

This was Miss Austin's third term in the district. She is really at home in the school room, and performs its labors with apparent ease. The class in the National Arithmetic was the best we have found during the year. An unusual ability to give illustrations was manifest. The teacher has given an interesting report from which we quote: "In all my experience I have never met with a class of scholars more pleasing in all respects; perfect union has existed during the term." Suitable chairs and desks have been provided, contributing largely to the comfort and convenience of the school.

DISTRICT No. 11. Parker's.

Summer Term, N. AMANDA WYMAN, Teacher.

Winter Term, DENNIS R. CHASE, and

GEORGE P. HADLEY, 2d, Teachers.

It has been quite an eventful year in the history of this school. Circumstances trying and difficult appeared, yet we believe a commendable degree of improvement was made. The summer term was commenced by Miss Martha R. Butterfield, who taught four days, but on account of ill health was unable to proceed with the school. The scholars made good advancement under Miss Wyman's instruction, and she gave excellent satisfaction to the district.

Mr. Chase taught five weeks, when so much dissatisfaction was expressed he left the school. We made two visits, but saw no indications of reported difficulties. He is highly commended in the Weare School report of last year.

Mr. Hadley labored with the school six weeks. Order and improvement were good. It was a profitable term. The school room has not a sufficient amount of black-board. A good one is now deemed indispensable in teaching arithmetic.

DISTRICT No. 12. Paige.

Summer and Winter Terms.

ELLA M. BUTLER, Teacher.

Miss Butler made a good beginning as a teacher. The welfare of the scholars received her undivided attention, and thoroughness in teaching was a prominent feature. Three visits were made during the two terms, and we feel satisfied that the school was managed successfully. The register is correctly filled and contains a good report of each school. The school house has been remodelled and conveniently fitted up for the school.

DISTRICT No. 13. Village, North Side.

Summer Term, HATTIE BLAISDELL, Teacher.

Winter Term, NEWMAN J. WILSON, and STEPHEN CRAM, Teachers.

The school was rather disorderly at first, but the teacher reports less trouble in maintaining order than she expected. Miss Blaisdell appeared anxious in regard to the well-being of her pupils. A good degree of interest was manifested in the closing exercises. Appropriate, and we believe truthful remarks are found in the register.

The winter term was unsuccessful in the extreme. Mr. Wilson left from choice, after teaching seven days. We have heard several reasons assigned, but none of them came from him. Mr. Cram did well in the examination before the Committee, but he evidently had singular ideas respecting school life, and it is difficult to account for some of his reported acts. The register has not been returned, and we are thus deprived of a knowledge of the attendance.

DISTRICT No. 15. Dow's.

Winter Term.—MARY A. RICHARDSON, Teacher.

A small and backward school, but doing well considering the advantages it enjoys. As we were unable to be present at the final examination, we cannot report definitely in regard to the prosperity of the school. It was Miss Richardson's first attempt at teaching. Teacher and scholars were doing well when visited. A short term well improved, is of great worth.

CONCLUSION.

We feel assured that we have not pleased all in the preceding reports. We may have exercised too much charity towards unsuccessful teachers, but we have little faith in hard words. Ridicule and sarcasm are poor instruments with which to labor for a reform, and hard expressions respecting a teacher or school appear entirely different to the author, when presented to the public gaze with his signature attached. We would express our thanks to the teachers for their care in filling out the registers. With one exception, every important item is reported, and that was doubtless accidentally omitted. The uniform kindness manifested by teachers, scholars and parents, is also cheerfully acknowledged.

ALVIN HADLEY,
School Committee.
